The Tribute to have new course

Denton-Record Chronicle/Barry Vermillion

Tripp Davis, golf course architect, far left, and PGA Tour player and Ryder Cup Team 2008 player Justin Leonard of Dallas, center in white cap, describe on Wednesday the layout and concept of the new 18-hole golf course the two designed that is being constructed at The Tribute Golf Club in The Colony. The new course will pay tribute to early American courses of the early 1900's — the "Golden Age of Golf." The new course is scheduled to open for public play in the fall of 2009.

Denton golf tourney still on schedule

It appears now that all outdoor activities from Friday through Sunday will be at the mercy, directional whim and strength of Hurricane Ike as he roars into the Gulf and heads our way.

According to the City of Denton Athletics Manager, Heather Gray, who is coordinating the annual Denton City Golf Championship that is scheduled to be a two-day 36-hole individual stroke play tournament, at the time I am writing this, all activities will continue as scheduled.

Round one will be played on Saturday, Sept. 13 and round two on Sunday, Sept. 14, at the Robson Ranch Wildhorse Golf Club in Denton.

Tee times begin at 10 a.m. each day. Mandatory check-in will be 45 minutes before the assigned tee times. Players should call 940-246-1001 from 12-6 p.m. on Friday, September 12 to confirm assigned tee times.
